International HEOR & HTA Associate Directors support and manage the development and execution HEOR & HTA deliverables that maximize the product value proposition for patient access. They ensure HTA and payer evidence requirements are built into TPPs, clinical development plans, integrated evidence plans, and integrated product strategies, working in partnership with cross-functional teams.

International HEOR & HTA Associate Directors support the development of HEOR & HTA strategy, generating fit-for-purpose, impactful value demonstration, for compounds/brands across the R-D-C continuum.

This position reports into the International HEOR Oncology Head.

About the Role

Key Responsibilities:

International HEOR & HTA Associate Directors play a crucial role in demonstrating the value of innovative medicines. Their responsibilities include:

- Support the development of HEOR & HTA strategy aligned with the product and access strategy, and lead the delivery of impactful HEOR evidence and deliverables for assigned therapeutic areas/markets (e.g., GVD, JCA Dossier, Early HTA Briefing Books, Cost-effectiveness Models, Budget Impact Models, evidence synthesis, utility strategy, Indirect Treatment Comparisons, Patient Preference Studies, access-enabling Outcomes Research and studies)
- Demonstrate strategic thinking in assigned areas of responsibility and represent the function effectively in cross-functional project teams
- Lead the design, execution, and oversight of HEOR studies and evidence generation projects, ensuring scientific rigor, methodological excellence, and alignment with strategic objectives
- Contribute to ensuring that access evidence needs are identified and integrated into pivotal clinical programs, phase 3b/4, RWE and integrated evidence plans, to meet the needs of external experts and institutions involved in reimbursement, pricing, access, and healthcare systems decisions
- Contribute to the development of fit-for-purpose communication strategies by translating clinical and HEOR evidence into compelling value narratives for diverse access stakeholder
- Build effective partnerships with colleagues in International V&A, Global and International Medical Affairs, International TAs, Patient Engagement, Development and regional/country teams.
- Embrace change with a positive mindset and help implement the new structure and optimize the ways of working with a focus on agility, flexibility and efficiency.
- Monitor and assess developments, trends, and dynamics in HEOR and HTA domains relevant to assigned therapeutic areas/markets, and share insights with the team and broader organization.

Essential Requirements:

- Advanced Degree; preferably Ph.D., M.D., MBA, RPh or equivalent.
- Significant pharmaceutical industry experience and at least a few years of relevant HEOR-related experience.
- Subject matter expertise in the areas of HEOR, HTA and value demonstration.
- Understanding of HTA/Payer evidence requirements and decision-making dynamics in International Region (ex-US) for all HTA archetypes.
- Significant experience working in or with global or above-country multidisciplinary drug development.
- Strong knowledge of research methodology, statistical methods in the field of data analysis and considerable experience collaborating with quantitative scientists and analysts.
- Extensive cross-functional experience with an innovation-focused, agile mindset and strong project-management capabilities.
- Proficient English, both written and spoken.

Desirable Requirements:

- Previous experience in the Neuroscience, Oncology therapeutic area and/or rare disease.
